

REBECA GARCÍA RUEDA

Rebeca García Rueda graduated in Psychology at the Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona (UAB), and has worked in this university's Language Service since 2007 as a psychometrics specialist. She has continued her studies during this time, taking several master's degrees in the field of methodology and assessment, and is now pursuing doctoral studies in the same area. She gives training in applied statistics within the field of languages at different university centres and collaborates on European projects as an expert on applied statistics.